Public Looming Larger In School Financing Decisions

A third dimension—the public—looms larger and larger in Granite City teacher-school district pay negotiations as it becomes increasingly evident that a tax rate election is in prospect by the mid-1960s.

Already near the limit of its spending capability, the school system seems certain to be pushed beyond the brink by its own built-in growth potential. It costs about $400 a year for a school district to educate each child. With 600 to 700 new pupils reporting each fall, a quarter-million dollars in extra costs develops almost automatically. Gathering of extra funds to meet the rising costs is not as automatic.

Reach Rate Limits
Already at the $1.75 educational fund tax rate limit, the district boosted its latest building fund levy to the extent that the 1962 building rate—announced in the spring of 1961—was due to hit the 25-cent limit.

The rate limits, which apply to each $100 of real estate and personal property assessment, are not absolute. But to increase them will require approval of voters in a referendum. Income is not necessarily static, even with rate limits. Revenue has risen in recent years with the aid of assessment boosts and the new assessment total to be announced next spring also is expected to show an increase over the previous $162,621,702. However, Granite City Assessor Von Dee Cruse plans reductions in the following year's assessment.

Agreement Pending
Teachers' pay is only one of a number of costs borne by the school system. It is receiving the most public attention at present because it is the major question mark; there has been no agreement on the amount of the salary schedule for the fiscal period dating back to July 1, 1962.

Also, since they are the largest employer group, the teachers pay has the greatest effect on overall school spending. The schools account for over half of each tax dollar collected to finance local governmental services.

Probably With Bond Issue
Whether a new tax rate proposal would be submitted as part of a bond issue remains to be decided, but the odds would appear to be heavily in favor of such a joint presentation.

There would be logic in it, since new buildings will soon be needed, and operating costs would have to be increased in order to staff and equip new schools.

In between bond issues, the school district has embarked on a program of constructing classrooms and adding to existing schools. The law permits additions, but not entirely new schools, to be built under such arrangements.

Adding 35 Classrooms
Utilizing regular operating funds, the district added six classrooms to Maryville grade school and four rooms to Wilson grade school in the summer of 1961, also creating two new rooms at Frohhardt through all-

Expansion of the cafeteria and addition of 11 rooms at Collinsville junior high school has just been completed, and contracts have been awarded for an add six rooms to Mitchell grade school and four to Nameoki grade school.

The practice has been criticized by Local 743 of the American Federation of Teachers. The union also has attacked efforts to reduce the school district's operating debt, which was whitened from $700,000 to $400,000 in the 1961-62 year.

Huge Interest Savings
School board members have noted savings of hundreds of thousands of dollars through building classrooms without borrowing. Funds also have been freed for other uses through reducing tax anticipation warrants and the accompanying interest costs.

Taxes also are being invested for short periods before being spent, resulting in interest payments to the school district.

While disagreeing with the teachers' salary and policy committee on construction and debt reduction policies, board members are in hearty agreement that pay should be increased. The question is how much, and the board has described its latest salary offer as "final."

Factors In Pay Proposal
Factors studied by board in reaching its pay proposal for 1962-63 and 1963-64 included the following:

Availability of funds; present pay of teachers in this general area; effect on school income of proposed assessment changes; federal impact aid prospects; living costs in this area; availability of qualified people; the need for a salary level which is competitive in retaining new teachers and also attractive enough to maintain the present staff; and the effect of salary expenditures on the district's overall effort to achieve a high caliber of instruction.

While no "green light" has been given to begin bond issue planning, the school staff keeps a close watch on construction of homes and other enrollment factors as a normal part of its work. Past growth generally has exceeded the forecasts.

Number of Children, Homes
The enrollment study includes an analysis of present class sizes and the probable size as the progress upward through the school system. The number of pre-school children born to local families is taken into consideration, along with the ages of children of new families moving into the district.

Contractors are consulted in regard to the number of new homes planned, and construction of apartments also figures in the continuing study.

Another fact is the maximum capacity of existing schools. Frohardt grade school already is deemed to be as large as it should grow, and the new addition to Nameoki school will complete that attendance center.

15 Quad-Cityans File Bankruptcy Petitions
Bankruptcy petitions are on file for 15 Quad-Cityans at the U.S. referee in bankruptcy office at Springfield. It was announced today by the Associated Retailers & Civic Association.

The petitioners are—

General Fund Down
The general county purpose fund total in the 1963 budget amounts to $1,280,833, down slightly from last year's figure of $1,411,459. Election costs of $115,250 in last year's expenses are not included in this year's new budget, as they are up from last year. This year's total is $1,548,200, compared to a similar total in the 1962 budget of $1,353,200. The two items, a county Civil Defense expenditure of $20,000 and a Madison County Museum allowance of $9000, were not contained in last year's budget.

Another Fact Is
The maximum capacity of existing schools. Frohardt grade school already is deemed to be as large as it should grow, and the new addition to Nameoki school will complete that attendance center.

assessment which is to begin Jan. 1.

Prehn explained that the budget also provides $113,166 for a county detention home. He said the county has $113,000 in earmarked state tax receipts on hand for this purpose. The funds were set aside some time ago, he said, but the detention home plans were dropped because of the county's financial straits.

Utilities Costs Up
Prehn said the overall cost of the pay raise to county employees probably amounts to about $300,000 in the total budget. In addition to pay hikes, he said, the budget allows for increased costs of all utilities and equipment expense.

Many departments need new equipment which could not be provided for, Prehn said, and the only maintenance work included is a $7500 plumbing repair project at the county courthouse. He said this project is essential to repair leaking water pipes. Nelson Hagmauer, Granite City township supervisor and a member of the budget committee, said he felt the committee did the best job possible considering the limited funds expected. "We worked long and hard on the budget," he said, "and I think we've done as well as could be expected."

Budget Breakdown
A recapitulation of the major budget headings is as follows: General Purpose funds—judicial, $250,500; county penal expense, $109,913; Madison county nursing home, $123,623; welfare work other than nursing home, $249,236; administrative expense, $74,285; administrative expense other than court house, $319,797; education, $13,120; miscellaneous, $171,851; and contingencies, $65,500.

Special Purpose funds—county sanatorium, $470,950; county highway fund, $386,000; county bridge fund, $413,000; county veterans assistance, $250,000; county Civil Defense, $20,000; and Madison County Museum, $9000.

GC Council To Open Street Truck Bids Tonight

Bids for two new trucks for the street department are to be presented to the Granite City council at tonight's regular session.

Council members also are expecting an initial report from the two out-of-town engineering firms that are to submit proposals for construction of a sewage treatment plant for the city.

The agenda includes the presentation of the monthly report from the comptroller and treasurer on city finances and the comptroller's report on Nemoel area sewer accounts.

Carried over from the Dec. 3 meeting is an ordinance for dedication of an east-west alley in the 1600 block between State street and Edison avenue, requested by Tri-City Grocery Co. The council two weeks ago voted to vacate a portion of the alley where the firm plans to expand its warehouse facilities.

It is expected that an ordinance will be submitted setting a 30-mile-per-hour speed limit for Pontoon road, and reports are anticipated on a request by Alderman Rufus LeMaster for condemnation proceedings to be started for three four-family flats at 2116-18, 2120-22 and 2124-26 Benton street, and a house at 2207 Benton street.

The city council is seeking treatment plant proposals from the engineering firms of Clark Dailey, Dietz & Associates of Urbana, and The Chester Engineers, Pittsburgh, Pa. They were notified of their selection in letters mailed out by the mayor on Dec. 4.

Haller Revokes Tattle Tale Inn Liquor License

Gus Haller, county liquor commissioner, Friday ordered revocation of the liquor license of Thomas Bailey, operator of the Tattle Tale Inn tavern near Collinsville.

The tavern was the scene of a vice raid conducted by state and county authorities Nov. 29. A man and woman were arrested on charges of soliciting for a prostitute and prostitution, respectively. They will be tried Dec. 28.

A hearing on the license revocation was conducted Thursday, on petition of Assistant State's Atty. Joseph Bartylak. Bartylak charged prostitution was conducted at the Tattle Tale.

Bailey, who was not at the tavern at the time of the raid, testified at Thursday's hearing he knew of no prostitution there. He said he had very little interest in the tavern, and planned to sell it.

Bartylak maintained that Bailey, as licensee, was responsible for the operation of the tavern. He said the Tattle Tale was an "undesirable place" and should be closed. "I strongly recommend that this license be revoked," he said.

Troopers Testify
Testifying at the hearing were two state policemen who participated in the vice raid, when a motel adjoining the Tattle Tale and the End of the Line establishment on Bend road also were raided. One of the troopers testified he entered the tavern in plain clothes and was invited into a back room by the woman.

Arrested were Bonnie Sattler, 21, of Belleville and Jesse Dowdy, 31, of Pontoon Beach, who are to be tried Dec. 28 at 2:30 p.m. before Police Magistrate Earl L. Vaughaux in Edwardsville. They had been scheduled for trial Saturday, but Vaughaux granted a continuance.

age bond sales for such purposes. The St. Louis Federal Reserve Bank has noted that the government has the right to refuse to issue any bonds involved in chain letter promotions.

The national savings bond director has pointed out that bonds are issued to permit citizens to invest in their government and through their purchases save "for future use and benefit." This scheme serves no such purposes. The post office department also has condemned the scheme.

Flood of Phone Calls Expected On Christmas

It will be business as usual—only more so—at the phone company Christmas Day. Quad-City residents are expected to make a record number of long distance calls, George Maize, manager of the local Southwestern Bell Telephone office, said today.

Phone users here make 11,000 long distance calls on an average day.

"Christmas calls should go through with few delays," he said. "Using direct distance dialing, Quad-City residents can dial direct to more than 69 million telephones throughout the United States and Canada."

The manager recommended that people dial their own calls for fastest long distance service. DD users will need to know the area code for the called city and the distant number.

"People planning out-of-town Christmas calls might want to obtain the area codes and distant numbers in advance. Operators will provide this information at no charge."

"If a long distance call is placed with an operator, it still will go through faster if the caller will give the area code and distant number," Maize said.

A full force of long distance operators will work Christmas Day to place calls that are not dial direct.

Tuesday Is Deadline For Lighting Contest

Tomorrow at midnight is the deadline for Granite City residents to enter the annual Jaycee Creative Home Exterior Lighting Contest.

First prize is $75, second prize is $50 and third prize is $25. There also are five $10 prizes for runners-up.

The contest is jointly sponsored by the Jaycees and the Illinois Power Co. Judging will be from Dec. 21-27, according to chairman Donald Young.

The amount of money spent on decorations will not be the deciding factor in judging. Creative ability and artistic talent will be more important.

Free assistance is available at the power company office at Niedringhaus and Delmar avenues. Miss Dorothy Davis, home lighting consultant will give free assistance to anyone with lighting problems.

Contest entry blanks also may be picked up at the office.

Police Give Traffic Tips To Shoppers

Traffic safety tips for holiday shoppers are being given by local police departments in a move to curb the annual upsurge of accidents.

The departments suggest shoppers take advantage of off-peak hours whenever possible and complete shopping before the last minute "craze."

"They suggest consideration be given other motorist by driving with care and the local drivers avoid the temptation to double park, even for a moment."

Motorists are urged to obey traffic signs and signals.

The departments also stress that the holiday season is not time to drive in any other manner than soberly and with "good will toward men."

The children at the school were organized into a search party to comb the grounds. They found the gun and a missing part.

Two Holiday Tournaments for Rams; Play Tomorrow

Lincoln of Venice will play Corpus Christi, St. Louis tomorrow night in the first round of the St. Paul (Highland) invitational basketball tournament, the first of two such tournaments in which the Rams are scheduled to compete.

The Lincoln game at 8:15 will follow a 6:45 meeting between Livingston and St. Peter & Paul of Waterloo.

Should the Rams win, they will advance to the semifinals to play the Livingston-St. Peter & Paul winner at 8:15 p.m. Thursday. A Rams loss tomorrow would drop Stan Lynch's team into the losers' bracket for a 6:45 p.m. contest Thursday.

Opens Tonight
The eight-team double elimination tournament will open tonight with Breussle meeting host St. Paul at 6:45 and Odlin playing Lovejoy of Brooklyn at 8:15.

The consolation trophy winner will be determined with a single game at 7:45 p.m. Friday, with the third-place and championship finals scheduled at 6:45 p.m. Saturday.

The following Thursday, Dec. 27, Lincoln will begin play in the 16-team Mater Dei (Breussle) invitational, playing Springfield Langhale at 10:45 a.m. at the Breussle gym.

This year marks the first time that the Rams will have participated in two holiday tournaments. Last season, they were idle over the Christmas vacation from classes.

Warriors Beat Wood River Matmen, Move To Top of Conference (Again)

Granite City moved to the top of the Southwestern high school wrestling conference heap—not an unfamiliar position for Coach Bill Schmitt's grapplers—with an easy 38-5 victory over Wood River here Friday night.

Four Warriors pinned their opponents as Granite City won 10 of the 12 varsity bouts, but Schmitt expressed concern over what he called "a lack of conditioning."

With a 3-0 overall mark and a 2-0 record against Southwestern opponents, "the easy ones are behind us," he said. Granite City's next foe is Riverview Gardens of St. Louis, which has run up a string of four consecutive dual meet victories on the west side of the river.

Riverview Gardens calls here at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, the final meet for GCHS prior to its annual excursion to northern Illinois, where two Chicago teams, North Chicago and Waukegan, will meet Schmitt's team on Dec. 21 and 22.

2 Similar Fire Alarms In Same Neighborhood

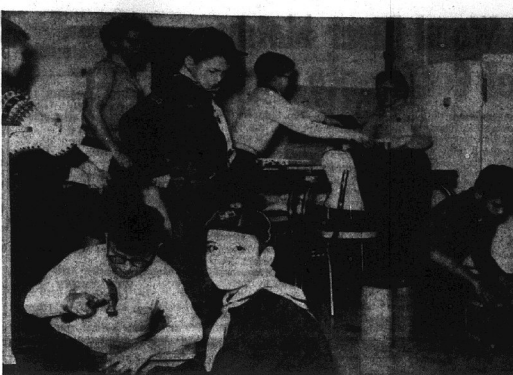

Two overheated oil stove fire alarms were answered in the same neighborhood Thursday afternoon and Friday morning by Granite City firemen. The fire-fighters said there was no damage at either place.

The first alarm was about 4:10 p.m. Thursday at a house trailer occupied by Marvin Green at 2001 Twelfth street; and the other at 8:10 a.m. Friday was a few doors away at the frame home of Sandra Hurt, 2016 Twelfth street.

Fire Call On Burned Food

Pork chops were burned but no other loss was reported in a fire at the upstairs apartment of James Terrell in a brick building at Calhoun and Selb streets, Venice, about midnight Saturday morning. There was slight smoke damage in the apartment. The blaze was attributed to an overheated frying pan on a kitchen stove.

Confederate Prison Camp

By John W. Allen
Southern Illinois University
The midcentennial of the Civil War is nearing and people of southern Illinois are pausing to take note of the role that this section had in the conflict. For this purpose there are two interesting cemeteries in Alton.

One occupies a small portion of the old city cemetery, the one having the Lovejoy monument. Union soldiers, members of the Alton garrison who died at that post during the war, rest in the plot.

Watched over by the national flag flown each day and one cannot like those they knew then, their graves are in ordered rows, marked by familiar appearing stones. Lettering on the stone-work above the entrance says, "U. S. National Cemetery."

The second cemetery is in North Alton. A thin black arrow on a white marker at the intersection of State and Rozier street at the 2300 block on State points west to the field where 1354 known war dead are buried. They are a part, but only a part, of the prisoners who died there. Two words above the pointing arrow tell us that it is a "Confederate Cemetery."

Oranges still make good stocking stuffers—and make for excellent nutrition to balance the rich and sweet foods which are so tempting at the holiday season.

Plentiful supplies of oranges and grapefruit make them an excellent "buy" since both the Florida and the California-Arizona crops show a large increase over last year. Increases in these two areas will more than offset the loss from a freeze in Texas. And there is still a heavy carryover of frozen concentrated juices.

Does your gift list include cooking utensils? When you go shopping for them you'll find an astonishing variety of styles, sizes, colors and materials. Many are so glamorous that their eye appeal alone would make you want to buy, regardless of function.

Meals are easier to prepare if the utensil is right in size and shape. It should fit the burner on which it is to be used. The material of which it is made should distribute heat evenly over the bottom surface of the pan.

What materials do this? Aluminum in a medium to heavy gauge is a good choice in the moderate price range. Others are also satisfactory. Know the size you want to purchase. Every home needs sizes to include a pint to two and one half quarts. Larger families will need 3 1/2 to four-quart size. These are all needed for vegetables, cereals, pudding and the like.

One small and one good sized skillet with a cover should take care of most frying and sautéing jobs. A dutch oven or sautépan in the four quart size is fine for soups, stews and pot roasts and for cooking for a crowd. What you want before you shop for cookware.

How to prevent the common cold—Don't be average. Otherwise, you'll have three colds this year, missing three to seven days of work, and blowing not only your nose but a good deal of money as well.

Colds cost American industry an estimated two to five billion dollars a year, according to the Common Cold Foundation—five times as much as the total cost of all labor stoppages! From 40% to 50% of all days lost from work are lost because of colds. Suppose you catch a cold? The most important thing is to act quickly—before the cold gets a solid foothold. Here's how.

1. Complete rest has the best and again been proven to be the best treatment for a cold.

2. Inhaling steam from an electric vaporizer can do much to relieve discomfort. The steam lubricates irritated membranes, preventing further irritation and breaks up congestion in those areas where cold complications are most likely to start—head, lungs, bronchial tubes.

3. Use some effective medication. Most so-called "cold cures" are virtually worthless, but some medical preparations do provide a measure of relief. Ask your doctor to recommend one to keep on hand at all times.

4. Keep your diet simple and nourishing. Heavy on liquids, light on starchy foods. Don't go out of your way to "feed a cold"—overeating places an added burden on your system, which is already working harder than usual to fight the virus.

5. If your temperature goes to 101, or if you have pains in the chest or chills, call your doctor. These symptoms indicate that you may have gone past the common cold stage. Don't let the "Common Cold" spoil your holidays.

Added Postal Hours For Late Christmas Mailers

The main post office will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. through Friday and from 8:30 to 5 Saturday, Granite City Postmaster Theodore Overbeck said today.

Peak of the pre-Christmas mailing season probably will be reached tomorrow and Wednesday, Overbeck said. He urged all those who have Christmas cards or gifts to mail to do so immediately.

Overbeck said December mailings through last Wednesday had totaled 85,515 more than during the same period last year. On Dec. 19 last year, he said, the post office handled 179,811 pieces of outgoing mail.

Madison Postmaster Harry Johnson said Venetian Postmaster Charles Simmons joined Overbeck in his appeal for mailing before the last minute. They said even a few hours delay now could prevent delivery by Christmas.

Overbeck asked residents who wish to receive a large number of Christmas cards to place a cardboard box or other container on their porch to hold mail which overfills the mail box.

"Last minute mailers are urged to use air mail for their Christmas cards and gifts which are going out of town," Overbeck said. "There is still time for local delivery, but all Christmas cards should be sent first class mail."

A postal annex at 1920 State street was put into operation Saturday by the post office, and additional postal employees are on duty this week in both Granite City and Madison. Incoming Granite City mail will be handled at the State street building.

"The holiday mail traditionally reaches a peak about a week before Christmas," Overbeck said. "It looks like this year's mail will hand set an all-time record."

Supermarkets have discovered that shoppers are either disorganized or have very good memories only in one of four uses of a Christmas card to place list.

Venue Change Sought By Alibi Lounge Owners

A request for change of venue from Circuit Judge Harold R. Clark is being sought by the owners of the Alibi Lounge, Collinsville road, on their petition to have part of an injunction order removed.

The request is on file in the circuit clerk's office and it was learned Friday the matter had been continued with no date set.

The injunction by Judge Clark, signed Aug. 10, prevents Josephine Giovando and Harry Branhoff from operating a tavern "for any purposes" for one year. The injunction also specifically prohibits them from using the tavern for immoral purposes. The state's attorney had sought the injunction on the grounds that the Alibi Lounge was being used for purposes of prostitution.

On Sept. 12, Branhoff, who had the liquor license for the tavern, and the Giovando woman, who owns the property, asked that the circuit court remove that part of the injunction which prohibits them from using the property "for any purposes."

The petition for change of venue requests that any judge other than Judge Clark hear the request because they feel he would be prejudiced in the case.

HAND-CARVED MANGER

SCENE: Jennifer Barnett, 4, and her brother Vernie Theodore "Teddy," 3, set up a manger scene.

Their parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Vernie Barnett purchased the hand-carved and hand-decorated figures in Vienna last year while attending the World YMCA Young Adult Conference there.

The Rev. Barnett is pastor of Niedringhaus Memorial Methodist church and a member of the YMCA board.

The Women's Society of the church gave the Barnetts a gift of money for their trip. They chose to purchase the nativity scene figures because they would be lasting and something every one could see.

Only one shop in Vienna carries handwood carvings of the caliber of these, according to Mrs. Barnett.

Nurse Urges Cooperation To Fight Mental Illness

Greater mobilization of forces is needed to set forth an effective program in the fight against mental illness, a report prepared by an Alton State Hospital nurse says.

Mrs. Hilda DeFrates, a supervising nurse, wrote the report from information she gathered while attending a two-day Regional Leadership Conference on Action for Mental Health in Chicago last month.

More than 375 persons representing 166 organizations from six states attended. It was one of five such conferences to be held in the United States.

"Mental illness is like the weather — everyone talks about it, but nobody does anything about it," she says in the report. "Even though funds are limited, there are resources available in our communities."

Local and state health departments and regional offices are anxious to carry forth a job.

Mobilization Of Public

The report says this job is "far beyond" any one professional organization. Mrs. DeFrates quotes Arnold H. Maremont, first vice-president of the National Association of Mental Health, as saying: "The public understands the problem and is willing to help — it is up to us to mobilize them."

She said out of "this conference it was said that attitudes must change, communications must improve, organizations lawmakers must work together more closely, communities must accept their responsibilities for treatment, rehabilitation services are urgently needed, more educational facilities and programs should be carried out and more professional personnel for the Mental Health field sought."

The report points out the need for "intensive" educational efforts to change public attitudes toward the mentally ill. Mrs. DeFrates says that conference members noted the need for more psychiatrists — "It takes 10 years to train one doctor in psychiatry."

The report also considers staffing of hospitals. It says hospital staffing should be "careful — getting people who are interested, capable in their jobs and educated in their particular positions."

Funds Needed

"Members of the conference as well as all participants were aware of the one big item needed to combat mental illness — that of fund raising," Mrs. DeFrates says. "Many people felt that the changing attitude of the public through the United States would be a big factor in obtaining funds."

"Tell the people about the problem now — let people know the National Association for Mental Health is very much alive and seek out various foundations, informing them of the need for financing mental health," she says.

Her report also suggests calling on industry and individuals throughout the United States for assistance.

"The mental hospitals need improved financial support so they can become treatment centers instead of that of custodial care alone," Mrs. DeFrates says.

Copies of her report will go to Dr. Abraham Simon, hospital superintendent, Mrs. Louvann Martin, hospital chief nurse, Josephine Brandt, president of the Illinois Nurses Association, whom Mrs. DeFrates represented at the conference and the headquarters staff of the Illinois Nurses Association. It also may be reprinted for the association's board members. Portions of it may be used in the nurses' publication.

Hike in Social Security Cost To Start On Jan. 1

Printed explanations of the social security tax increase scheduled for Jan. 1 will be available here on Fridays when a social security representative makes a regular visit at the city hall in Granite City.

A distribution of new social security Employee tax tables is being made to employers by the East St. Louis district office. Starting with the first pay in January, a worker's social security deduction will be increased by one-half of one percent on the first $800 of annual wages. With this increase, the amount of the social security tax will be 8 1/2% for an employee, with matching amount contributed by the employer.

The Social Security law originally enacted in 1935 called for a beginning tax rate of one percent for employees and for employer on the first $3000 of annual earnings, with gradual increases until the top rate of three percent was reached in 1949.

These tax rates, it was estimated, would be reduced to finance the retirement benefits of $10 to $85 per month, the only type of benefit provided under the original law.

But the scheduled increases were not permitted to go into effect and the tax rate did not even rise to 1 1/2% until 1950. Many changes were made in the original law. Benefits have been added for the dependent and survivors of workers and also for disabled workers and their families. Also benefits have been increased several times due to boosts in the cost of living.

Under the present law, benefits to workers 65 and over range from $40 to about $122 a month. The present law, benefits as much as $187.50 a month. Family payments range up to a maximum of $254 a month.

The present law calls for two more increases in the social security tax rate, one in 1960 and the last in 1968. Each increase will amount to one-half of one percent so that beginning in 1968, an employed worker will be paying 4 1/2% of his annual earnings toward his social security protection.

The difference between the originally planned top tax rate of three percent and the top 4 1/2% rate that will go into effect in 1968, will go partly to pay for the additional protection and higher benefits. It also will aid in making up the money not collected because the tax increases scheduled for the 1940's were postponed.

Deputy Paul Turner Collapses, Dies At Alton

Deputy Sheriff Paul E. "Rip" Turner, 60, died Thursday afternoon at St. Joseph's Hospital, Alton, where he was taken after collapsing in his auto at Alton while on duty. He was semi-conscious when found after suffering a paralytic stroke.

Mr. Turner, who was well-known in the county, had been a deputy 12 years, serving the Alton area, and was first appointed by former Sheriff James T. Callahan.

Funeral services were held this afternoon with burial taking place at Upper Alton Cemetery.

On Friday, the appointment of Otto F. Schwegel as a day deputy to succeed Turner, was announced at Edwardsville by Sheriff Samney Pfundorf. Schwegel, a former Alton policeman, previously was named a night deputy.

Auto Skids On 16th St., Slides Into Parked Car

Donald G. Watson, 31, of Granite City Army Depot, was involved in an accident about 10 p.m. Friday.

Police said he applied his brakes and slid into a parked auto owned by B. J. Neely, 2131 Troy street, Madison. The mishap occurred on 16th street at Cleveland Blvd.

SWIU ASSISTANT PROFESSOR of Zoology, Dr. Ralph W. Axtell, whose 15-year study and observations of lizards will soon be climaxed with publication of a book, "The Lizards of Texas."

SWIU Prof Completes 15-Year Study Of Lizards

Fifteen years of study and observation will be climaxed soon for a Southern Illinois University professor with the publication of his book entitled "The Lizards of Texas."

Dr. Ralph W. Axtell, assistant professor of zoology at the university's local area campus, said that his work covering all 53 separate lizard varieties found in Texas, has been written for both the scientist and the layman. The book will include mapped ranges of the various lizards, their life histories and behavior patterns. It will be illustrated with photos.

Texas, according to Axtell, has more lizards than any other state, with the possible exception of California. All non-poisonous—they range in size from the three and one-half inch Ground Gecko to an introduced three-foot long Iguana. The United States has only one poisonous lizard, the Gila Monster, found in Arizona, Utah, and northern New Mexico.

The educator is also interested in animal distribution in the past in relation to the present. Mountains, he says, have played a great part in restricting both past and present animal movements. His aim is to correlate animal movements in relation to barriers imposed by various geographic factors.

During Axtell's studies he has discovered evidence of a large lake formed at some time during the ice ages in southern New Mexico and adjacent Mexico and western Texas. The lake, he believes, existed more than one million years ago and was apparently formed by mountain uplift and lava preventing drainage to the Gulf of Mexico. The Rio Grande, he explains, apparently flowed into the lake, and over a great number of years these waters dug a canyon which eventually drained the lake. Axtell plans additional study in this area.

Also on the SIU zoologist's agenda for future research is a study of lizard adaptations to the rigors of desert life throughout the world. Certain lizards in the deserts of Africa, Australia and South America, he pointed out, are strikingly similar in shape, markings, and sculation. His quest will be to determine the cause for this phenomenon.

Axtell received his doctorate in zoology from the University of Texas in 1958, and taught at Sul Ross State College in Texas before coming to SIU in 1960. He is the author of numerous papers dealing with reptiles and other animal life in the southwestern United States and Mexico.

Half-Month GC Building Permits Total $17,300

Permits were issued during the first half of December for construction and improvement projects totaling $17,300, according to reports of Earl Bloomquist, city building inspector.

Included in the project are a new house, two new garages, a carport, one home improvement project and a new illuminated sign at the YMCA.

Raymond Thiele, obtained a permit for a $12,468 home at 190 West Pontoon road. The dwelling is to be of brick veneer construction, with five rooms and one and one-half-bath.

A permit for building dormers in the roof at 2317 Grand avenue was received by P. R. House, M. H. Wolfe & Co. in contractor for the job, which is to cost $1158.

Billie Henaley secured a permit for a $1500 garage at 2808 Edgewood avenue, while Tom Rensing was issued a permit for erection of a $750 garage at 2464 Kilarney drive.

A permit for an $1100 carport at 2705 Dale avenue went to Halim Corley. The permit, issued to the YMCA is for installation of a porcelain enamel sign costing $324. The sign is of the double-faced projecting type.

THURSDAY, DEC. 16, 1937
Five girls and two boys made perfect marks in all their subjects during the second six weeks of instruction at Community high school, according to records in the office of Superintendent A. Grigby.

Ruth Hamm and Thelma Mayes achieved perfect marks in six studies, while Helen Bacon, Lois Kruessche, Georgia Trester, Christ Kacaleff and Gregor Siso had perfect grades in five subjects.

A skin disease known as impetigo is on the decline in Granite City after being fairly prevalent during the last few months. It was common today.

Elmer O. Bull, whose resignation as general secretary of the local YMCA becomes effective Dec. 31, was presented a pocket watch at a surprise dinner given in his honor by the various "Y" organizations Monday evening. A. W. Hoelscher made the presentation.

Anxious to do their part in helping provide a merry Christmas for needy children in the community, several little girls of Granite City, each of whom is a prodigy in entertainment, have conceived an original plan to raise funds for the purpose through curving every night on Christmas.

Proceeds will be turned over to the chief of police, John Tappel, who will see that they are distributed to those in need. The girls are Mary Lou Boush, six, of 2813 Raleigh street, and twins, Edna and Emma Swaney, 10, of 2313 Grand street.

In spite of most unfavorable weather, one of the largest crowds on record attended the sixteenth annual ball given by the Madison police department Tuesday evening at the Crystal Ballroom.

The floor was packed to capacity with merry-makers. Money raised will be used to buy candy, nuts and fruit for the children of Madison.

Births outnumbered deaths more than five to one in Granite City and Nameoki during November, according to statistics in the office of City Clerk Edwin Rigg. There were 68 births and only 12 deaths.

City Inspector John Beltrich today reported that cases of measles so far this month. All are under quarantine, he said. An estimated 30 cases also are under quarantine. He is believed all the patients will recover.

THE FORM

PUBLIC SHOULD JOIN IN FIGHTING LAYERS BOARD
To the Editor:

What a double whammy. "We have just begun to fight." What a battle cry for an editor. "Leave boys out of politics." What a battle cry for a politician.

Such editorials are humdrum. But this one is different. It is a call to action. It is a call to the people to join in the fight against the layers board.

Concentrated citizen action under the leadership of an aggressive newspaper never has been so successful. Clean up the Augean stable, and start with the city hall. The people will support you.

This is not a partisan matter. It is just and clean government. We remember when the levee district was run by Republicans, and by combinations of Republicans and Democrats. It is not run by public servants now.

The only alternative is to get rid of it altogether. We need no levee board anymore in Granite City.

I am out of the levee district now, but should the Press-Record initiate a drive for funds to fight this in the courts, we wouldn't hesitate to contribute a few dollars of our limited resources.

Make it a movement of the citizenry, not of a few well-to-do business men. The people and the levee board will be won. St. Clair county may have a levee board, but Madison county has none. Six hundred thousand dollars is a lot of money, but it can be done with it. No unfair political claims have to wash their hands in it.

Good luck. Lead and keep up the fight without relaxing, and we may still witness the abolishment of a political joke for the taxpayers that has cost the city more than $50,000.

Fluoridation For 6,000,000 In Illinois But Thousands In This Area Missing Out

About 6,000,000 persons in Illinois are now drinking water which contains sufficient fluorides to improve their dental health, a new announcement by the Illinois Department of Public Health. The secure neediness as local residents are aware, does not include the nearly 70,000 Quad-City residents.

Water fluoridation is endorsed by all recognized health authorities on national, regional, state and local levels and dependably preventing 60% of future tooth decay. Madison and Venice city councils have authorized fluoridation, taking the position that their constituents should not have to endure needless pain and expense. Granite City is taking the opposite position.

When the hundreds of thousands of people in the Illinois Metropolitan Area are considered, the toll in financial outlay and human suffering obviously is immense. Granite City is the key roadblock to fluoridation. In defying the public and the unanimous advice of health authorities, the council majority is taking the line of enemy, rather than benefactor, of the people.

I hope that no teacher . . . will ever give countenance to the pernicious belief that stupidity and honest service in satisfying the demands of the people for necessities and conveniences of life is something to be ashamed of because it is profitable.—Edwin Cannan.

Paul Lynn, 23, of 204 Omaha street, at the time he was arrested, was charged with the murder of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lynn, 2000 Monroe street, and fractured skull and leg above the knee. He is a patient at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Mrs. W. E. Ayres Jr. of Mitchell is confined to her home with a badly sprained knee.

Readers are invited to contribute to this column. Name and address must be given. Letters should be brief. Letters should be 250 words or less.

What we need now is to try something to get the layers board, if possible, to investigate this problem. I would be ready to help in this campaign, and I am sure others would follow.

We don't need this tax bureau. What is the purpose of it? We have it now. How is this helping us, other than taking our hard-earned dollars out of our pockets? I believe our city council also should try and act upon this; not just wait until the layers board deliver one of their own. Or don't they have the spunk to stick up for the taxpayers?

Now is the time to prove yourselves. You've got one black mark by losing our sanitation department. Let's try to do the taxpayers a good deed by cleaning up the layers board and fighting to the end.

Let's all remember that the men who started this action. I believe these men deserve our support. DAVID HAMMOND

Fire Timely Example Of Needs Met By Local Welfare Agencies

The fire which left a widow and her eight children homeless in near-zero weather is a timely reminder of the year-round role played by the Salvation Army and other local welfare agencies. In the unforeseen crisis, it was to these organizations that the family turned for assistance.

Basic work of the agencies is financed by the United Fund, which is over $8000 short of meeting its goal for 1937 operating funds. The same welfare groups also participate in annual Christmas food distribution, partly financed by a $45000 Trust of Lights campaign currently more than $2000 away from success.

This Christmas season, what could be more appropriate on each list than the Tree of Lights and the United Fund? Both help to make not only the holidays but the entire year merry and bright for Quad-City families.

Too often, habits make men instead of men making habits.

Severe Penalties Justified For Liquor Sales To Minors

Since he believes that "the sale of liquor to minors has become widespread and alarming, and something must be done," the chairman of the Illinois Liquor Control Commission is right in urging more severe penalties for convicted tavern operators.

Chairman Cartwright urged license revocations rather than suspensions, adding that "some sell to minors because they apparently feel it is worth the risk of only a suspension."

Authorized now to reduce but not increase penalties ordered by city and county liquor commissioners, the state group is advising all taverns by letter that it will seek the right to revoke licenses for sales to minors. This may be possible by obtaining a new interpretation of the commission's right to "modify" rulings, or by passing an appropriate law in the 1933 Illinois legislative session.

Stern measures seem entirely appropriate in such cases. Taverns which cater to minors ought to be put out of business.

The end of the world will catch some people still getting ready to do some good works.

Social Security Costs, Rising In U. S., 50% Of Pay In Italy

Before many additional programs are placed under Social Security financing, it might be well to consider the situation in Italy, where such taxes now have reached 50% of payroll costs. Items financed by the huge outlay in that country are pensions, medical care and the bureaucracy which administers them. General governmental costs are financed by other taxes.

Two conditions make the current U.S. Social Security discussions somewhat unrealistic. Unfortunately, many citizens are not aware of them.

First, the comparatively small expenditures proposed for new programs are merely a "foot in the door." They are not only paid for by the employee, but also by the employer. The cost has been expanded, but also might climb in meeting the requirements of actuarial soundness.

Secondly, even present commitments cannot be met by the current rate of pay deductions. The number of people eligible for retirement pay was artificially small in the early years, and the cost now is mushrooming rapidly due to population gains, more widespread eligibility, increases in benefits, reduced retirement ages and the growing percentage of the population made up of senior citizens. Present 64% deductions—34% paid by the employee and 30% by the employer—will rise to 74% through 1955 and 84% through 1967, advancing to 94% effective Jan. 1, 1968.

Italian social programs are financed by a 42% charge against the employee and 42% against the employer. Belgium is next with about 20% paid by the company and 10% by the worker. Social security charges total 25% in France, 18.8% in Holland and 14% in Germany.

We do not know when or if this nation will "catch up" with the European countries, but the probable destination should be considered when embarking on any new road, or when accelerating the rate of travel on an existing road. Already there is concern in Italy over being priced out of world markets and losing the flow of foreign investment capital.

On Building A Better Mousetrap

"Build a better mousetrap and the world will beat a path to your door" not only is encouragement to ingenuity, but it also has been taken literally by more than a few people. Too many, in the view of a bank official, T. C. Bashem, who traces his original mistake to newspaper advertising—the response was too big.

Publishing his new industrial loans department, an Arizona bank prepared an advertisement displaying a baited mousetrap. It read, "For rent—money for better mousetraps. Whether building a better mousetrap, or for the space age, consult our industrial experts."

Industrial borrowers nibbled, but so did a host of mousetrap inventors. One proudly showed off his said mousetrap after six months. Another said his would grab 27 mice, one at a time or all at once. Still another created a trap operated by transistors and electronic relays.

Bashem plans to continue placing ads in newspapers, but has sworn off mousetraps—and provers.

Nomeki Township Board Meeting Set

Further discussion of the proposed sanitary sewer system is expected at Wednesday night's meeting of the Nomeki town board of auditors.

While no revision of engineering plans is anticipated, there is a possibility the engineer, Neil McKay of H. W. Lochner Co., may have a presentation, and it is likely Township Board members will report on the financial picture for the project.

The township is hopeful to have the levee district to finance trunk line construction. The board also is seeking bids for the project. The engineer of the project is E. G. Hoffman of Carleville. The accident occurred about 1:15 p.m.

THE EAST SPEAKS

REV. JOHN DIGIACONO
Mitchell Presbyterian Church

A white Christmas looks very promising as we look out from our study window on the snow-covered ground. Old man winter, dressed in his best to fulfill the order.

The air is filled with a spirit of joy and cheer. Every person we meet has a smile of joy upon his face. Little Debbie is poking around this box and that corner with great anticipation.

Bulah and I were thinking about the Christmas season and why it is so joyful an occasion. The stores are filled with folks who are buying gifts so that someone may be happy. Questions are asked about folks who are in need so provision may be made for a night and happy Christmas for them.

Joy Of Giving
There is a spirit which captivates our hearts, and we think about doing for the joy of doing and giving. As we thought about winter, we wondered, "why do we give at Christmas?"

Our eyes were opened to the winter of the heart, and we read: "When they were come into the house . . . they fell down and worshipped him. . . . they opened their treasures . . . and presented unto him gifts . . . gold, frankincense and myrrh."

These wise men had seen His star in the East. They knew that something wonderful was happening. They knew that somewhere a King was being born in this world. Little did they know who this Babe of Bethlehem was. From the far reaches of their desert homeland they set out to find this King. In their baggage they carried gifts fit for a king.

Meaning Of Symbols
The gold was emblematic of the kingship of Christ. The frankincense symbolized the duty of Christ, the Godhead. The myrrh was a foretelling of His sufferings. These they gave to the Christ Child, and as they gave, they gave of themselves, for they obeyed the will of God. They returned to their homeland another way.

What kind of a gift will you give this season? Will you give the best that you have? Will you give in the spirit of giving and giving to the joy of giving? Will you give without expecting a return of your gift?

What is the best gift that you can give to God? Just give of yourself to Christ as Christ gave Himself for you.

At this blessed season, Bulah, Debbie and your pastor desire to you and your families all the love and peace that can be yours through Him who we remember at this Christmas time.

Five Ways Provided To Control, Remove Judges

Five methods are provided under the new Illinois judicial amendment for removal or control of judges, a study by the Illinois County Commission for Modern Courts has shown.

One of the arguments against the proposed amendment by voters in November was that it would be given "lifetime jobs."

Despite this contention, the commission notes that the judicial program's "bulwark" against undue pressures on judges is the protection for judges from removal or impeachment.

A judge becomes a drone, a disabled, a senile, a feeble, ailing, or injured, a fraud or a tool of someone else, there are no means by which he can be removed from office. The plan than under the past court structure.

"Most lawyers can name at least one judge under the present non-tenure system who has been removed, they have held back the course of racial freedom, permitted gross political abuse of the courts, fostered jurisdictional nonsense and let popular hysteria run riot."

Under the new, independent system, there is virtually no way to remove such a judge. Impeachment has been used only once since 1870. And such a judge with the right connections of enough money can easily be re-elected.

But under the judicial reform articles, he could be removed. Rejected on his bad record.

"2. Impeached.
"3. Disqualified during his term for disability or unfitness on charges by the bar, lawyers or private persons after a hearing by the Supreme Court commission.

"4. Disciplined and corrected, put to work, retrained, criticized or censured.
"5. Retired at a statutory age."

Defending the tenure provision under which judges run for re-election on their records rather than against specific candidates, the committee says:

"We know that if they are to be removed, they must be removed by the political facts of the situation. They are not removed or replaced just as much, or more so, on whether or not they are good judges, or whether their fences mended. Most judges, good or bad on the bench, are smart enough to do at least as well as they can."

"Election figures show that, in the so-called non-tenure system, sitting judges may die, retire or make a political mistake, but they are rarely defeated at the polls."

"Danger In Old System
"There are exceptions, of course, and there is the danger in non-tenure. Weak judges may be tempted to depart and bad ones may be re-elected. The danger of the law and despite it, or because of it, is re-elected; while strong, good judges may follow the law and be defeated for the very reasons that should warrant another term."

"Judges under any system may include many good judges and a few bad. Generalizing about judges as a whole is unwise. But without claiming that every judge with independence under the new system would be good, it can be said that political judges with out tenure are better."

Citing specific references to judges under the new system, the committee adds:

"Politically dependent judges without tenure have held back liberal social and economic legislation. They have ignored or abused the rights of citizens in fair trial. They have defied the law of the land and the decrees of the nation's highest court."

"Jurisdictional Nonsense
"In Illinois, they ran the criminal defendants' 'merry-go-round' for years. In Madison county, they have held back the course of racial freedom, permitted gross political abuse of the courts, fostered jurisdictional nonsense and let popular hysteria run riot."

YMCA Goes Japanese For Judo Club Event

Eighty-two persons from all over the greater metropolitan area sat in the shadow of Mount Fuji Saturday night at the local YMCA and listened to the soft strains of koto music as they ate octopus and other exotic dishes. It was the first annual dinner of the Central States Judo Association, sponsored by the Granite City Judo Club. The entire boys' department adjacent to the dojo (judo practice hall) was converted into a Japanese garden scene through the artistry of Ouder Guler, a Turkish university student residing at the YMCA. A large glowing Mount Fuji, silhouetted by back lighting, stood behind the head table. A large pool of water in a rock garden, complete with a torii (Japanese arch), was completely surrounded by low tables. The entire room was lighted by candles and paper lanterns. Robert Whelan, an English teacher in the Granite City school system, presided as head of the host club. Representatives of 15 Judo clubs attended. All guests sat in stocking feet on the floor and ate with chopsticks. The dishes included shrimp flakes, cold beef, octopus, white rice, fried rice, tempura (morsels of vegetables and fish deep fried in batter), niku yasai (chicken and vegetables), niku yasai (beef and vegetables), lop lop ngau (Chinese style meat and vegetables) and sukiyaki, swilled down with 10 gallons of Chinese tea. The dishes were expertly prepared by Pfc. Roy F. "Tom" Wong, a Granite City Army Depot soldier. He has been in the United States 10 years, coming here from Hong Kong. Wong was assisted by members of the local club. The other children are Alfred Lee, seven; Ricky, six; Gary, five, and Thelma, three. Trailer Fire Leaves Family of 7 Homeless

Mitchell volunteer firemen, aided by Glen Carbon volunteers, were unable to save a house trailer—home for a family of seven—in a blaze which broke out early Friday morning in the Sunset Trailer Courts along U.S. Bypass 66-40 near Sunset Hill. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Collins and their children, ages two to seven, lost all of their belongings in the blaze, which was blamed on a heater. The youngest child, Beatrice, two, was reported to have suffered a slight burn to an arm.

Yule Tree Advice By SIU
By ALBERT MEYER
Bundles of Christmas trees are at retail shops across the county as the annual holiday season sales program picks up momentum.

More than two million Christmas trees — mostly fresh evergreens — will be bought between now and Christmas to brighten Illinois homes for the holiday season. At least 90% of them will come from other states and Canada.

For this reason most families in the area will miss the enjoyable experience of going to a field of evergreens to select and cut a Christmas tree, or of buying a freshly-cut home grown tree at the local market, says Ernest Kurmes, Southern Illinois University assistant professor of forestry.

In major Christmas tree producing areas the evergreens may be harvested three or four months before the buying season starts in the retail market. Freshness is maintained by special handling and storage methods until the bundles of trees are delivered to the local markets.

Kurmes says the local store operator often finds it impossible to keep the trees in a cool place with the base in contact with moisture. Consequently, trees may begin losing needles before they are purchased and decorated to brighten the home. When to buy depends on the source of supply and when the tree will be put up and decorated. If the tree can be obtained from a tree farm in the area, purchase and cutting can be delayed until time to put it in the U. S. Naval carrier.

house, assuring a delightfully fresh Christmas tree. Outdoor markets receiving periodic shipments often can keep imported trees in good condition until sold, providing the buyer reasonable assurance of getting a well-shaped, fresh tree when he needs it.

If using a downtown store as source, it may be desirable to purchase early to get the kind of tree desired while it is still fresh and store it outside in a bucket of moist sand or in a tree stand with a water container until time to place it in the house. Making a fresh cut across the base of the tree will make water absorption easier.

The variety of tree to select is a matter of personal taste, Kurmes says. There are four groups often used for Christmas trees — cedars, pines, spruces and firs. Red cedars are native to the area and have pleasing shapes but have weak side branches which do not support heavy ornaments well. Pines may be grown locally but must be pruned during growth to have good shape. Scotch pines have the shorter needles, red and white pine, long needles. Spruces and firs usually are imported from other areas.

Completes Training
Daniel Hay Filter, U. S. Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Filter, 1702 Kirkpatrick, Jones, has returned to duty after completing basic training at Great Lakes and spending a two week leave at home. He was transferred to San Francisco, Calif., and from there flown to Japan where he will serve aboard a U. S. Naval carrier.

Army Depot, Union Representatives Set Negotiations
The week of Jan. 13 has been set as a tentative date for opening contract negotiations between a newly-formed union representing about 600 workers at the Granite City Army Depot and government representatives.

Otto Butler of East St. Louis, organizer for Local 146A of the International Union of Operating Engineers, said Friday the employees will meet before then to ratify a tentative contract. About 150 depot employees attended a meeting Thursday night at the Labor Temple to discuss a contract. Butler said the group has had periodic meetings since last January.

About 900 depot employees would be directly or indirectly affected by Local 146A negotiations, Butler said. He said more than 600 workers are to be represented directly by the union, and all are expected to be members of the union by Jan. 13.

Under federal labor laws, a closed shop in which all workers can be required to join a union chosen as collective bargaining agent is not permitted at government installations. Butler said Local 146A has been certified by the Illinois Department of Labor. He said he sees no reason why the federal government should not recognize it. Depot representatives have agreed to the Jan. 13 date for opening contract negotiations, Butler said.

Farm Column

By IRUKAM W. MAY
Madison County Farm Adviser

Every dairyman realizes the importance of having cows that produce enough milk to pay for their feed costs and other expenses if there is to be any profit. The dairyman knows, too, that the presence of a few low-producing cows in the herd can make the whole business show a loss.

Often the problem is how to identify these unprofitable cows. Individual production records is the only accurate way to make these records are most easily kept by belonging to the Dairy Herd Improvement Association or cooperating in the Weigh-A-Day-A-Month project. Dairyman wanting more information on these services should notify the farm adviser's office.

Eliminating low producers would benefit the dairyman as well as the individual dairyman. Udel Wehling of Alhambra township remarked the other day that getting rid of cows not paying their way would solve the dairy surplus problem.

Members of the Illinois Dairy Herd Improvement Association set two important records during the testing year ending in April.

Grain fed per cow averaged a record 3500 pounds up 300 pounds over the previous year and average milk production rose to 10,970 pounds, making the largest increase in a single year of Illinois DHIA work.

During the testing year, the average DHIA member fed grain at the rate of one and a half pounds of grain to every 3.4 pounds of milk. This compared with a feeding rate of 1 pound of grain to every 3.3 to 3.4 pounds of milk produced during the previous six years.

University of Illinois dairy scientist Leo Fryman says it apparently paid some DHIA members to feed for higher production. Although average feed costs were $3 higher per cow last year than in the previous year, higher production and a slight boost in milk prices gave Illinois dairymen an 87 percent average return over feed costs.

Fryman points out that, although high grain feeding may be justified for some cows in some herds, it should not be looked upon as an answer to all situations.

Cows vary in their genetic ability to produce. They also vary in the amounts of grain and roughage they will eat. Roughage varies considerably in quality. Because of these and other variables, high grain feeding should be on a cow-to-cow basis.

Farmers who buy machinery and equipment in 1962 qualify for the 7% investment credit provided in the 1962 tax laws passed by Congress.

This was one of the important changes in income tax regulations for farmers and ranchers. Equipment installed in such buildings as feed mills and grain dryers also qualifies for the credit. But parts of the building structure or livestock do not qualify.

New or used property qualifies if it has a useful life of at least four years. However, the 7% allowance can be taken for the full cost of the item only if it has a useful life of eight years or more. For items with a life of six or seven years, a farmer can take the 7% allowance on only two-thirds of the cost. For property with a useful life of four or five years, he can deduct 7% on only one-third of the investment.

New property bought with a trade-in also gets the credit. The investment credit is a deduction from the income tax due. So a farmer who qualifies actually pays only 93% of the purchase price, so the government gets part of the 7% discount over the life of the item.

Each dollar of investment credit is equal to $5 of ordinary income. A farmer should not buy just to get the investment credit against his taxes. But a tax-supported 7% discount on machinery and equipment may make it worth while to buy sooner than he had expected.

The two-day school at Edwardsville was conducted by the Illinois Extension Service and the Internal Revenue Service. Instructors were Arnon R. Allen, University of Illinois and Roger D. Fisher and Charles F. Christman of the Internal Revenue Service.

World Music Premiere In Korea Attracts 2500

Another chapter in the musical and foreign service career of James Wade of Granite City was written in Korea late this fall with the world premiere of his symphonic suite, "The Listeners."

The new work, in four movements, is drawn from incidental music to a play by Mrs. Harriet Matsushige. It was presented by the Seoul Philharmonic Orchestra under a guest conductor, David Shapiro, before an audience of 2500 persons in Citizens Hall.

The concert, which also included works by Bach, Haydn and Rossini, was followed by a reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Kurt Matsushige, about 30 Korean and American musicians and music lovers attended.

Televised, Rebroadcast

Wade's composition also was televised over Station KBS-TV, with the composer being interviewed on the same program.

The Philharmonic concert was rebroadcast by tape over Radio Station HKBV in December.

The symphonic suite consists of an overture, dirge, march and gallop. Both the composer and the playwright are staff members of the American-Korean Foundation. Wade serving as publicity, educational and cultural affairs officer and Mrs. Matsushige as cultural consultant.

Satirical Work

The music was composed in Seoul between February and July of this year. It is a predominantly satirical vein, and lasts 16 minutes. The score is dedicated to Harriet and Kurt Matsushige and to Dr. Dorothy Frost, Foundation executive director.

Conductor Shapiro is in his second year as Fulbright professor of music at Seoul National University, where he directs classes in orchestra, chamber music and opera. A graduate of Columbia University, he is well known in the U. S. and Europe.

Apply Now For Next Fall, SIU Advises Seniors

High school seniors who plan to enter Southern Illinois University in the fall of 1963 should make application now, Wilbur Venable, acting director of admissions, has pointed out.

Seniors should write to the Admissions Office, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, requesting application forms for admission and university housing. A booklet on SIU and a two-page sheet of instructions detailing steps necessary for admission is included in the packet.

Venable said all enrolling freshmen must take the American College Test which is given at most high schools during the year. Students at schools which do not give the ACT test usually have opportunity to take it elsewhere.

Rank In Upper Two-Thirds. Illinois students ranking in the upper two-thirds of their class must take the ACT test for admission at the end of their seventh high school semester subject to successful completion of their high school work.

In-state students in the lower one-third of their class will be considered for fall quarter enrollment only if they score high on the ACT examination. Otherwise, they must seek enrollment in the summer quarter or wait until the following winter quarter.

Out-of-state high school seniors must rank in the upper one-third of their class for admission to the fall semester.

Students planning to attend the University of Illinois must complete the registration and university housing application forms by the first of February.

University housing is not assigned until students are officially accepted for admission. The Admissions Office begins notifying students of their admission status the first of February, Venable said.

Extra Precautions Urged By Local Fire Officials

Special safety measures during the holidays are being urged by fire department officials in the Quad-Cities, in an effort to counteract fire hazards inherent in Christmas activities.

One of the greatest hazards of the season is the traditional Christmas tree, fire authorities pointed out. Extra precautions are urged in the home and at parties and Christmas programs where the tree is the center of activities.

Inspect Tree Daily
All Christmas trees should be inspected daily to determine if they are safe, it was noted. If a tree becomes too dry and brittle, it should be taken down. Trees should be in stands with water containers, and containers should be kept full.

relative to Christmas trees were given by the firemen. All decorations should be fireproof, they said, and electric wires used on a tree should be carefully inspected so that no short circuits are possible.

The tree should never be placed near a stairway or in any other location where a draft would be provided. And, as an added precaution, the firemen recommended that plenty of ash trays be provided and smokers kept at a safe distance from the tree.

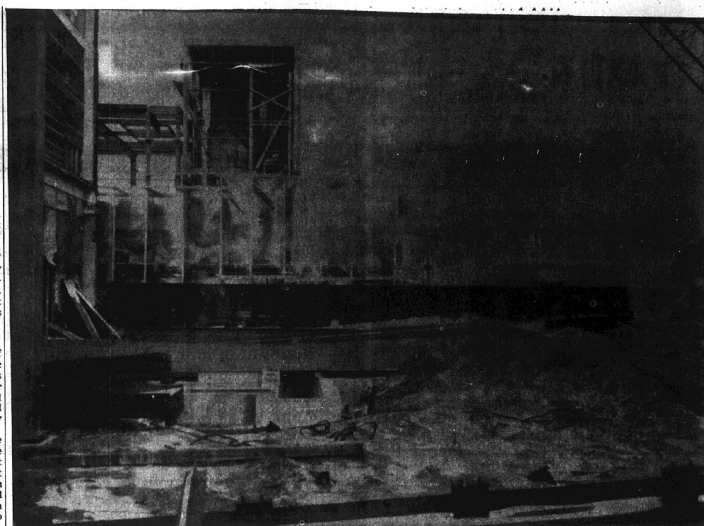

Fire Coasting Material
A solution of nine ounces of borax and four ounces of boric acid in a gallon of water makes a flame-resistant coating for such costumes, one fire official said. Garments should be dipped in the solution, then wrung by hand.

Ironing will not harm the flame-resistant qualities of the material, although a garment should be dipped again after it is washed. Material coated with the solution will burn if touched to an open flame, the fireman warned, but will not continue to burn if the flame is taken away.

"Every possible measure should be taken to prevent accidental fires during the holiday season," a fire chief said. "A sudden fire could easily result in tragedy."

"Christmas and its traditional decorations and festivities bring additional fire hazards," the chief continued. "But with added precautions we can all enjoy a safe and happy holiday."

turn down the appeal. The replacement cost, an estimated $200,000 for the line originally had been installed by the levee district.

Hoelscher said the levee district, faced with a Jan. 1 deadline, would not call a vote in January on the $130,000 issue and also on another bond issue for $370,000 which was announced last week for the first time.

$370,000 which was announced last week for the first time. The district is planning to pay the $100,000 to Granite City and finance a $200,000 sewer project in Venice with the smaller bond issue.

Levee district officials have expressed a reluctance to submit the bond issues to elections. They point out property owners in the Madison county area of the district would vote against the $130,000 bond issue.
